

The McKinsey Leadership Academy

10th July 2015 – 11th July 2015

Wellington College, Berkshire, UK

This unique programme starts with a two-day, all expenses paid residential course for 100 selected student leaders from across the UK and Ireland. It is designed for 16-17 year olds to learn about leadership by working in small teams in a fun informal atmosphere.

Students face big choices. They ask themselves which university they should go to, what course, what career they should choose, should they go on a gap year or go straight into the job market? Whatever their plans, we would like to help. Our Leadership Academy is a chance to have fun, meet other students from the UK and Ireland, learn about leadership and develop practical work skills. Students will also learn about management consulting as a possible career option.

The first event is a two-day launch residential event. Over the last four years, it took place in mid-July, at Wellington College, an inspiring venue in Berkshire. After taking part in the launch residential, students will become a part of the wider McKinsey and Future Foundations network. In the summer 2016, we'll hold a two-day graduate residential where students can share their progress. They will also have the chance to enter a competition for a McKinsey Leadership Award. Over the next few years we will stay in touch to update students on events and opportunities.

Learn about leadership. At the end of the residential, students will have a new toolkit of approaches and an action plan to be more effective as leaders.

Build career skills. We'll give students advice to help them make the most of future career opportunities. We'll also highlight experiences to seek out now and at university that could open doors in the future.

Be part of a wider network. Students will meet high performing, like-minded peers from other colleges and start building their personal network.

When can I apply?

Deadlines for applications will be on the 8th April 2015. More information on the Leadership Academy will be released in November 2014. We encourage schools to nominate up to 5 students, who have a strong academic record and have demonstrated leadership potential. The programme is increasingly competitive with 100 students selected last year from over 300 applications from 150 schools across the UK.

Who will be running the residential?

McKinsey & Company

McKinsey & Company is a world-leading management consultancy who work with companies, governments and not-for-profit organisations to help them tackle their biggest challenges. Their clients are leaders in business and public life.

Future Foundations (FF) is an independent training organisation which believes in the power of people. Our goal is to help create a generation of inspirational, confident, and optimistic young people who are leaders in their lives and society.
